TUESDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1777.

Whitehall, December 2, 1777.

YESTERDAY Morning Major Cuyler, First Aid de Camp to General Sir William Howe, arrived from Philadelphia, with Dispatches to Lord George Germain, of which the following are Copies and Extracts.

Copy of a Letter from General Sir William Howe to Lord George Germain, dated Headquarters German Town, October 10, 1777.

MY LORD,

IN my last Dispatch of the 30th of August, I had the Honor to advise your Lordship of the Army having landed on the West Side of Elk River, and of its being afterwards divided into two Columns; One under the Command of Lord Cornwallis at the Head of Elk, and the other commanded by Lieutenant-General Knyphausen at Cecil-Court-House: I am therefore to give your Lordship an Account of the Operations from that Period, wherein will be included two General Actions, in both of which I have the Satisfaction to premise that Success has attended His Majesty's Arms.

On the 3d of September Major-General Grant with Six Battalions remaining at the Head of Elk to preserve the Communication with the Fleet, the two Columns joined at Pencadder, laying Four Miles to the Eastward of Elk on the Road to Christien Bridge. In this Day's March the Hessian and Anspach Chasseurs, and the 2d Battalion of Light Infantry, who were at the Head of Lord Cornwallis's Column, fell in with a chosen Corps of One Thousand Men from the Enemy's Army, advantageously posted in the Woods, which they defeated with the Loss of only Two Officers wounded, Three Men killed, and Nineteen wounded, when that of the Enemy was not less than Fifty killed, and many more wounded.

On the 6th Major-General Grant, after Captain Duncan, who superintended the Naval Department, had destroyed such Vessels and Stores as could not be removed from the Head of Elk, joined the Army.

The whole marched on the 8th by Newark, and encamped that Evening in the Township of Hokeffen, upon the Road leading from Newport to Lancaster, at which first Place General Washington had taken Post, having his Left to Christien Creek, and his Front covered by Red Clay Creek.

The Two Armies in this Situation being only Four Miles apart, the Enemy moved early in the Night of the 8th by the Lancaster Road from Wilmington, and about Ten o'Clock next Morning crossed Brandywine Creek at Chads Ford, taking Post on the Heights on the Eastern Side of it.

On the 9th in the Afternoon Lieutenant-General Knyphausen marched with the Left of the Army to New Garden and Kenner's Square, while Lord Cornwallis with the Right moved to Hokef-sen's Meeting House, and both joined the next Morning at Kenner's Square.

On the 11th at Day-break the Army advanced in Two Columns; the Right commanded by Lieutenant-General Knyphausen, consisting of Four Hessian Battalions under Major-General Stern, the 1st and 2d Brigades of British, Three Battalions of the 71st Regiment, the Queen's American Rangers, and One Squadron of the 16th Dragoons under Major-General Grant, having with them Six Medium Twelve Pounders, Four Howitzers, and the Light Artillery belonging to the Brigades. This Column took the direct Road to Chad's Ford, Seven Miles distant from Kenner's Square, and arrived in Front of the Enemy about Ten o'Clock, skirmishing most Part of the March with their advanced Troops, in which the Queen's Rangers, commanded by Captain Wemyss of the 40th Regiment, distinguished themselves in a particular Manner.

The other Column under the Command of Lord Cornwallis, Major-General Grey, Brigadier-Generals Mathew and Agnew, consisting of the mounted and dismounted Chasseurs, Two Squadrons of the 16th Dragoons, Two Battalions of Light Infantry, Two Battalions of British, and Three of Hessian Grenadiers, Two Battalions of Guards, the 3d and 4th Brigades, with Four light Twelve Pounders, and the Artillery of the Brigades, marched about Twelve Miles to the Forks of the Brandywine, crossed the first Branch at Trimble's Ford, and the Second at Jeffery's Ford, about Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, taking from thence the Road to Dilworth, in order to turn the Enemy's Right at Chad's Ford.

General Washington, having Intelligence of this Movement about Noon, detached Gen. Sullivan to his Right with near Ten Thousand Men, who took a strong Position on the commanding Ground above Birmingham Church, with his Left near to the Brandywine, both Flanks being covered by very thick Woods, and his Artillery advantageously disposed.

As soon as this was observed, which was about Four o'Clock, the King's Troops advanced in Three Columns, and upon approaching the Enemy, formed the Line with the Right towards the Brandywine; the Guards being upon the Right, and the British Grenadiers upon their Left, supported by the Hessian Grenadiers in a second Line: To the Left of the Center were the two Battalions of Light Infantry, with the Hessian and Anspach Chasseurs, supported by the 4th Brigade—The 3d Brigade formed the Reserve.

Lord Cornwallis having formed the Line, the Light Infantry and Chasseurs began the Attack; the Guards and Grenadiers instantly advanced from the Right, the Whole under a heavy Fire of Artillery and Musquetry; but they pushed on with an Impetuosity not to be sustained by the Enemy, who falling back into the Woods in their Rear, the King's Troops entered with them, and pursued closely for near Two Miles.

After

After this Success a Part of the Enemy's Right took a second Position in a Wood about half a Mile from Dilworth, from whence the 2d Light Infantry and Chasseurs soon dislodged them; and from this Time they did not rally again in Force.

The 1st British Grenadiers, the Hessian Grenadiers and Guards having in the Pursuit got entangled in very thick Woods, were no further engaged during the Day.

The 2d Light Infantry, 2d Grenadiers, and 4th Brigade, moved forward a Mile beyond Dilworth, where they attacked a Corps of the Enemy that had not been before engaged, and were strongly posted to cover the Retreat of their Army by the Roads from Chad's Ford to Chester and Wilmington; which Corps not being forced until after it was dark, when the Troops had undergone much Fatigue, in a March of Seventeen Miles, besides what they supported since the Commencement of the Attack, the Enemy's Army escaped a total Overthrow, that must have been the Consequence of an Hour's more Day-light.

The 3d Brigade was not brought into Action, but kept in Reserve in the Rear of the 4th Brigade, it not being known before it was dark how far Lieutenant-General Knyphausen's Attack had succeeded; nor was there an Opportunity of employing the Cavalry.

Lieutenant-General Knyphausen, as had been previously concerted, kept the Enemy amused in the Course of the Day, with Cannon, and the Appearance of forcing the Ford, without intending to pass it, until the Attack upon the Enemy's Right should take Place: Accordingly when it began, Major General Grant crossed the Ford with the 4th and 5th Regiments; and the 4th Regiment passing first, forced the Enemy from an Entrenchment and Battery, where three Brass Field Pieces and a 5 and half Inch Howitzer were taken, that had been placed there to command the Ford. The Enemy made little Stand on that Side after the Work was carried, when the Guards appearing on their Right Flank, the Retreat became general; but Darkness coming on before Lieutenant-General Knyphausen's Corps could reach the Heights, there was no further Action on that Side.

From the most correct Accounts, I conclude the Strength of the Enemy's Army opposed to Lieutenant-General Knyphausen and Lord Cornwallis, was not less than Fifteen Thousand Men, a Part of which retired to Chester, and remained there that Night; but the greater Body did not stop until they reached Philadelphia. Their Loss was considerable in Officers killed and wounded; and they had about Three Hundred Men killed, Six Hundred wounded, and near Four Hundred made Prisoners.

The Loss on the Side of His Majesty's Troops, and the Ordnance, Ammunition, and Stores taken from the Enemy, will appear in the inclosed Returns, N^o 1. and 2.

The Army laid this Night on the Field of Battle, and on the 12th Major General Grant, with the 1st and 2d Brigades marched to Concord. Lord Cornwallis, with the Light Infantry and British Grenadiers, joined him next Day, and proceeded to Ash Town within Five Miles of Chester.

On the same Day (the 13th) the 71st Regiment was detached to Wilmington, where the Enemy had thrown up Works, both to the Land and to the River, with Seven Pieces of Cannon in the latter; but these Works being evacuated, Major M'Donell took Possession of the Place without Opposition, and made Mr. M'Kinley, the new-appointed President of the Lower Counties on Delaware, his Prisoner.

On the 14th, Lieutenant-Colonel Loos, with the combined Battalion of Rhall's Brigade, escorted the Wounded and Sick to Wilmington, whither the Battalion of Mirbach was sent Two Days afterwards to join him.

The Army moved in Two Columns to wards Goshen on the 16th; and Intelligence being received upon the March, that the Enemy was advancing upon the Lancaster Road, and were within Five Miles of Goshen, it was immediately determined to push forward the Two Columns and attack them. Lord Cornwallis to take his Route by Goshen Meeting-house, and Lieutenant-General Knyphausen by the Road to Downing-Town.

The two Divisions proceeded on their March, but a most violent Fall of Rain setting in, and continuing the whole Day and Night without Intermission, made the intended Attack impracticable.

The 1st Light Infantry, at the Head of Lord Cornwallis's Column, meeting with a Part of the Enemy's advanced Guard, about a Mile beyond Goshen, defeated them, killing Twelve, and wounding more, without the Loss of a Man.

Nearly at the same Time the Chasseurs in Front of Lieutenant-General Knyphausen's Column fell in with another Party, of which they killed an Officer and Five Men, and took Four Officers Prisoners, with the Loss of Three Men wounded.

The Enemy being thus apprized of the Approach of the Army, marched with the utmost Precipitation the whole Night of the 16th, and got in the Morning to the Yellow Springs, having, as is since known, all their small Ammunition damaged by the excessive Rain.

In the Evening of the 17th Lord Cornwallis advanced to the Lancaster Road, and took Post about Two Miles distant from Lieutenant-General Knyphausen.

The Army joined in the Lancaster Road at the White-Horse on the 18th, and marched to Truduffin, from whence a Detachment of Light Infantry was immediately sent to the Valley Forge upon Schuylkill, where the Enemy had a Variety of Stores, and a considerable Magazine of Flour. The 1st Battalion of Light Infantry and the British Grenadiers took Post there next Day, and were joined on the 20th by the Guards.

The Enemy crossed the Schuylkill on the 18th, above French Creek, and encamped upon the River, on each Side of Peckamy Creek, having detached Troops to all the Fords of Schuylkill, with Cannon at Swedes Ford and the Fords below it.

Upon Intelligence that General Wayne was lying in the Woods with a Corps of Fifteen Hundred Men, and Four Pieces of Cannon, about Three Miles distant, and in the Rear of the Left Wing of the Army, Major General Grey was detached on the 20th late at Night, with the 2d Light Infantry, the 42d and 44th Regiments, to surprize this Corps. The most effectual Precaution being taken by the General to prevent his Detachment from firing, he gained the Enemy's Left about One o'Clock; and having, by the Bayonet only, forced their Out Sentries and Pickets, he rushed in upon their Encampment, directed by the Light of their Fires, killed and wounded not less than Three Hundred on the Spot, taking between Seventy and Eighty Prisoners, including several Officers, the greater Part of their Arms, and Eight Waggons loaded with Baggage and Stores. Upon the first Alarm, the Cannon were carried off, and the Darkness of the Night only saved the Remainder of the Corps. One Captain of Light Infantry and Three Men were killed in the Attack, and Four Men wounded. Gallantry in the Troops, and good Conduct in the General, were fully manifested upon this critical Service.

On the 21st the Army moved by Valley Forge, and encamped upon the Banks of Schuylkill, extending from Fat Land Ford to French Creek. The Enemy upon this Movement quitted their Position, and marched towards Potsgrove in the Evening of this Day.

On the 22d the Grenadiers and Light Infantry of the Guards crossed over in the Afternoon at Fat Land Ford, to take Post, and the Chasseurs crossing soon after at Gordon's Ford, opposite to the Left of the Line, took Post there also. The Army was put in Motion at Midnight. The Vanguard being led by Lord Cornwallis, and the Whole crossed the River at Fat Land Ford without Opposition. Major General Grant, who commanded the Rear Guard with the Baggage, passed the River before Two o'Clock in the Afternoon, and the Army encamped on the 23d, with it's Left to the Schuylkill, and the Right upon the Monatomy Road, having Stony Run in Front. The Second Battalion of Light Infantry was detached to Swedes Ford, which a small Party of the Enemy quitted immediately, leaving Six Pieces of Iron Cannon behind them.

On the 25th the Army marched in Two Columns to German Town; and Lord Cornwallis, with the British Grenadiers, and Two Battalions of Hessian Grenadiers, took Possession of Philadelphia the next Morning.

In the Evening of the 26th Three Batteries for Six Medium Twelve Pounders and Four Howitzers were begun at Philadelphia, to act against the Enemy's Shipping and Craft that might approach the Town. These Batteries were unfinished on the 27th, when Two Frigates, a Number of Gallies, Gondolas, and other armed Vessels, came up from Mud Island, and attacked the Lower Battery of Two Guns and Two Howitzers. The largest Frigate called the Delaware, mounting Thirty Guns, anchored within Five Hundred Yards of the Battery, and the other Frigate somewhat more distant; the Gallies, Gondolas, and other Vessels taking their respective Stations as they could bring their Guns to bear. About Ten in the Morning they began a heavy Cannonade upon the Town as well as the Battery, but the Tide falling the Delaware grounded; upon which the Four Battalion Guns of the Grenadiers being brought to bear upon her to the greatest Advantage, they did such Execution in a short Time, that she struck her Colours, and was taken Possession of by the Marine Company of Grenadiers commanded by Captain Averte.

Brigadier-General Cleveland, who attended the Batteries in Person, seeing the Effect of the Battalion Guns upon the Delaware, turned the Direction of his Fire to the smaller Frigate and armed Vessels, which forced all of them, excepting a Schooner that was disabled and driven on Shore, to return to their former Situation, under the Protection of the Fort, where there were Two floating Batteries in the Manner of Hulks, of considerable Strength, with Three Ranges of sunken Machines, which they term Chevaux de Frize, to obstruct the Passage of the River, the lowest Row being Three Miles below the Fort.

The Enemy had a Redoubt upon the Jersey Shore, at a Place called Billing's Point, with heavy Guns in it to prevent these Machines from being weighed up.

Upon the Representation of Captain Hammond, commanding His Majesty's Ship Roebuck, who was lying off Chester with some other Ships of War, that the Possession of Billing's Point would give him the lower Chevaux de Frize, the 10th and 42d Regiments were detached on the 29th, under the Command of Lieutenant-Colonel Stirling. This Detachment crossing the River next Day from Chester, took Possession on the 1st of October of the Enemy's Works at the Point, which Three Hundred Men posted there evacuated, after spiking the Guns and burning the Barracks. Lieutenant Colonel Stirling pursued them about Two Miles, but to little Purpose, as they retired with the utmost Precipitation. Captain Hammond immediately opened the Navigation at that Place, by removing a Part of the Chevaux de Frize.

On the 3d the Regiment of Royal Welch Fusiliers was detached to Philadelphia, with Orders to proceed next Day to Chester, where they were to be joined by the 10th and 42d Regiments on their Return from Jersey, and to form an Escort for a Convoy of Provisions to the Army.

The Enemy having received a Reinforcement of Fifteen Hundred Men from Peek's Kill, One Thousand from Virginia, and presuming upon the Army being much weakened by the Detachments to Philadelphia and Jersey, thought it a favorable Time for them to risk an Action. They accordingly marched at Six o'Clock in the Evening of the 3d, from their Camp near Skippach Creek, about Sixteen Miles from Germain Town.

This Village forms one continued Street for Two Miles, which the Line of Incampment, in the Position the Army then occupied, crossed at Right Angles near a Mile from the Head of it, where the 2d Battalion of Light Infantry and the 40th Regiment were posted.

In this Line of Encampment Lieutenant-General Knyphausen, Major-Generals Stirm and Grey, Brigadier General Agnew, with Seven British and Three Hessian Battalions, the mounted and dismounted Chasseurs, were upon the Left of the Village extending to the Schuylkill, the Chasseurs being in Front.

Major-General Grant and Brigadier-General Mathew, with the Corps of Guards, Six Battalions of British, and Two Squadrons of Dragoons, were upon the Right; the 1st Battalion of Light Infantry, and the Queen's American Rangers, were advanced in the Front of this Wing.

At Three o'Clock in the Morning of the 4th the Patrols discovered the Enemy's Approach, and upon the Communication of this Intelligence the Army was immediately ordered under Arms.

Soon after the Break of Day the Enemy began their Attack upon the 2d Light Infantry, which they sustained for a considerable Time, supported by the 40th Regiment; but at length being overpowered by increasing Numbers, the Light Infantry and a Part of the 40th retired into the Village, when Lieutenant-Colonel Musgrave, with six Companies of the latter Corps, threw himself into a large Stone House in the Face of the Enemy, which, though surrounded by a Brigade, and attacked by Four Pieces of Cannon, he most gallantly defended, until Major-General Grey, at the Head of Three Battalions of the 3d Brigade, turning his Front to the Village, and Brigadier-General Agnew, who covered Major-General Grey's Left with the 4th Brigade, by a vigorous Attack repulsed the Enemy that had penetrated into the upper Part of the Village, which was done with great Slaughter: The 5th and 55th Regiments, from the Right, engaging them at the same Time on the other Side of the Village, completed the Defeat of the Enemy in this Quarter.

The Regiments of Du Corps and Donop being formed to support the Left of the 4th Brigade, and One Battalion of Hessian Grenadiers in the Rear of the Chasseurs, were not engaged; the precipitate Flight of the Enemy preventing the Two first Corps from entering into Action, and the Success of the Chasseurs, in repelling all Efforts against them on that Side, did not call for the Support of the latter.

The 1st Light Infantry, and Pickets of the Line in Front of the Right Wing, were engaged soon after the Attack began upon the Head of the Village; the Pickets were obliged to fall back, but the Light Infantry, being well supported by the 4th Regiment, sustained the Enemy's Attack with such determined Bravery, that they could not make the least Impression on them.

Two Columns of the Enemy were opposite to the Guards, 27th and 28th Regiments, who formed the Right of the Line.

Major-

Major-General Grant, who was upon the Right, moved up the 49th Regiment with Four Pieces of Cannon to the Left of the 4th Regiment, about the Time Major-General Grey had forced the Enemy in the Village, and then advancing with the Right Wing, the Enemy's Left gave Way, and was pursued through a strong Country between Four and Five Miles.

Lord Cornwallis, being early apprized at Philadelphia of the Enemy's Approach, put in Motion the Two Battalions of British and One of the Hessian Grenadiers, with a Squadron of Dragoons; and his Lordship getting to German Town just as the Enemy had been forced out of the Village, he joined Major-General Grey, when placing himself at the Head of the Troops he followed the Enemy Eight Miles on the Skippach Road, but such was the Expedition with which they fled, he was not able to overtake them.

The Grenadiers from Philadelphia, who, full of Ardor, had run most of the Way to German Town, could not arrive in Time to join in the Action.

The Country in general was so strongly enclosed and covered with Wood; that the Dragoons had not any Opening to charge, excepting a small Party on the Right, which behaved most gallantly.

The Enemy retired near Twenty Miles by several Roads to Perkioimy Creek, and are now encamped upon Skippach Creek, about Eighteen Miles distant from hence.

They saved all their Cannon by withdrawing them early in the Day.

By the best Accounts, their Loss was between Two and Three Hundred killed, about Six Hundred wounded, and upwards of Four Hundred taken. Among the Killed was General Nash, with many other Officers of all Ranks, and Fifty-four Officers among the Prisoners.

Since the Battle of Brandywine Seventy-two of their Officers have been taken, exclusive of Ten belonging to the Delaware Frigate.

Your Lordship will see the Loss on the Part of the King's Army in Return N^o 3, and among the Killed will be found the Names of Brigadier-General Agnew and Lieutenant-Colonel Bird of the 15th Regiment, both of whom are much to be lamented as Officers of Experience and approved Merit.

Lieutenant-Colonel Walcot of the 5th Regiment is among the Wounded, but I have the Satisfaction to report that he is now in a fair Way of Recovery, though at first his Wound was thought mortal. His Behaviour on this Occasion reflects upon him infinite Honor.

In these several Engagements, the Successes attending them are far better Vouchers than any Words can convey of the good Conduct of the General Officers, and of the Bravery of the other Officers and Soldiers. The Fatigues of a March exceeding One Hundred Miles, supported with the utmost Chearfulness by all Ranks, without Tents, and with very little Baggage, will, I hope, be esteemed as convincing Proofs of the noble Spirit and Emulation prevailing in the Army to promote His Majesty's Service.

Major Cuyler, my First Aid de Camp, will have the Honor to deliver my Dispatches, and I flatter myself is well informed to answer your Lordship's further Enquiries.

With most perfect Respect,

I have the Honor to be, &c.

Extract of a Letter from General Sir William Howe to Lord George Germain, dated Philadelphia, October 21, 1777.

SINCE the March of the Army from the Head of the Elk, I have been honoured with your Lordship's several Dispatches, N^o 10, 11, 12, and separate Letter of the 20th of May, the Duplicates of which were before received, also the Original and Duplicate of the 12th of June, enclosing the States of Hessian Chasseurs and Recruits brought out by Major-General Robertson, a circular Letter of the same Date, and the Original and Duplicate of your Lordship's Dispatch of the 14th. These reached my Hands at German Town on the 18th Instant, and on the 19th I had the Pleasure to receive your Lordship's Dispatches of the 17th and 18th, which came to New York by the Le Deuiller Packet.

The inclosed Copies of Reports from Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Clinton and Brigadier-General Campbell will give you a particular Information of the most important Transactions that have passed on the Side of New York. The very important and brilliant success set forth in N^o 3, does infinite Honor to the General and his Troops, and must be attended with the best Consequences to His Majesty's Service.

The Loss on the Part of the King's Troops on this last Occasion is contained in Return N^o 4.

One Hundred of the Enemy were killed in the different Attacks, Eight Field Officers, Two Captains, Twelve Subalterns, and about Three Hundred Men made Prisoners, by the best Accounts that could be obtained before Sir Henry Clinton's Advices were dispatched.

On the 19th the Army removed from German Town to this Place, as a more convenient Situation for the Reduction of Fort Mifflin, which at present is an Obstruction to the Passage of the River, as the Upper Chevaux de Frize cannot be removed until we have Possession of that Post. The Difficulty of Access has rendered the Reduction of it a much more tedious Operation, than was conceived upon our Arrival here.

I am to request that additional Cloathing may be sent over for 5000 Provincials, which, by including the new Levies expected to be raised in this and the neighbouring Countries will certainly be wanting.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Clinton to General Sir William Howe, dated Kingsbridge, 23d September, 1777.

IN the last Letter which I had the Honour of writing to your Excellency of the 6th of this Month, I mentioned my Intention of making an Incurion into Jersey; the Object of which was to make a small Diversion in Favor of both Armies, at what, I supposed, a critical Time; being learnt by Rebel Accounts that you had landed on the Elk River.

My principal Motive was, if possible, to attempt a Stroke against any detached Corps of the Enemy, if one offered, or, if not, to collect a considerable Number of Cattle, which would at the same Time prove a seasonable Refreshment to the Troops, and deprive the Enemy of Resources which I understood they much depended upon; and finally to retire, with our Body, by the only Road practicable with those Embarrassments, to re-embark, return to our Camp, or proceed to some other Expedition if any Thing presented itself.

All Arrangements being settled, the Landing was made at the four following Places, viz. At Elizabeth-Town-Point by Brigadier-General Campbell, with the 7th, 26th, and 52d Regiments, Anspach and Waldeck Grenadiers, and 300 Provincials.

At Schuyler's Ferry by Captain Drummond, with two Pieces of Cannon, 250 Recruits of the 71st Regiment, and some Convalescents.

At Fort Lee by Major-General Vaughan, with Captain Emmerick's Chasseurs, five Companies of Grenadiers and Light Infantry, the 57th, 63d, and Prince Charles's Regiment, and 5 Pieces of very light Artillery.

And at Tapan by Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, with 200 Provincials, and 40 Marines.

The Corps which landed at Elizabeth-Town-Point to proceed towards Newark, driving Cattle, disarming the Inhabitants, and if it met with the Enemy in any Force, so as to prevent its Proceeding to Aquakinack, its Retreat over the Passaic River was secured by a small Corps with Cannon on the Heights of Schuyler, who had landed at Schuyler's Ferry, and were appointed to take Possession of the high Grounds which command the Environs of Newark, &c.—If the Elizabeth-Town Corps continued its March to Aquakinack, it was there received by the Corps which had landed at Fort Lee, and marched by Newbridge, Hackinsack and Slatterdam, where it was in a Situation to fulfil that Object. A Post was left Hackinsack, and I ordered General Vaughan to leave one Battalion and two Pieces of Cannon at Newbridge to cover that very important Pass. Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, who had landed at Tapan, to remain there, and if pressed to fall back on Newbridge; this however subject to any Alterations that General Vaughan should think necessary to make. Finding that Brigadier General Campbell had landed on Friday the 12th, about Four o'Clock in the Morning, without Opposition, I then went by Newark Bay to Schuyler's Landing on Hackinsack River.—The Cannon were that Instant landed, and I ordered them to proceed, through the Cedar Swamp, to the high Grounds near Schuyler's House, where Captain Sutherland, with 250 Men had been for some Time.—Finding it necessary to amuse the Enemy, who being informed of the Landing at Elizabeth-Town-Point, were retiring with their Cattle; the Troops were ordered to shew themselves, and about Noon the Enemy were much increased in Number, and had got one Piece of Cannon. They had all the Boats on their Side of

of the River.—Firing of Musquetry and Cannon continued the whole Day with little or no Loss on either Side. Much loose Firing was heard beyond Newark; and at Night we had a private Report that General Campbell had taken Possession of that Town. I sent immediately to tell him our Situation, but soon afterwards, by the Noise of Cattle driving and March of Troops, found he had continued his Route, was opposite to us, and on his Way to Aquakinack. I judged it best to order him to halt till Morning.—At Day-break the Rebels appeared in some Force and about Noon they had three Pieces of Cannon in Battery on their Side of the Rivine.—I went over to observe them; and had every Reason to suppose, from their Cloathing and Artillery, that they were reinforced by what is called Continental Troops.—To try their Countenance, and give an Opportunity to the Provincials, I ordered Burkick's Battalion to march through a Corn Field, with an Intention of taking in Flank a Body of the Rebels posted behind a Stone Wall, and which it would have been difficult to have removed by a front Attack.—The Regiment marched with great Spirit, and their March, with some little Movement to favor it, obliged the Rebels to quit without a Shot—I then repassed the River, desiring General Campbell to lose no Opportunity of giving them a Brush, and, if possible, of taking their Cannon.

In the Evening the Rebels retired, as we supposed, to the neighbouring Woods, and I waited only to hear of the Arrival of a Squadron of Cavalry, which I had ordered to join General Vaughan from Paulus Hook, to settle a Plan in which Part of General Vaughan's Corps might co-operate with General Campbell's, in endeavouring to surround them. In the mean Time I received a Letter from General Vaughan, acquainting me, that, by Information from his Patrols, the Rebels were assembling in great Force at the Clove. This Intelligence, and their leaving us so suddenly, gave me some Suspicion of their Intention, and made it necessary for me to assemble our little Army as soon as possible, occupy Newbridge in some Force, and send Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell from Newbridge towards Tapan, to observe their Motions in that Quarter.

General Campbell began his March at Day-break, and was not followed.—I ordered the small Corps on the Heights of Schuyler, reinforced with two Companies of Grenadiers, to fall back and cover the Entry of the Desfile; and when the Cattle we had got on that Side had passed the River, they were to pass also, and remain with their Cannon on the other Side.

I then went to General Vaughan at Slatterdam, and having assembled the little Army and the Cattle, I ordered him to march to Newbridge, and General Campbell towards Hackinsack.

The whole assembled at Newbridge on the 15th, and then hearing nothing of the Enemy, having collected our Cattle, the Soldiers without Tents or Blankets, and the Weather threatening, I thought it advisable to fall back. I accordingly ordered General Campbell to continue his March to English Neighbourhood, taking with him the Cattle, amounting to 400 Head, including 20 Milk Cows for the Use of the Hospital, (which was all I would suffer to be taken from the Inhabitants) 400 Sheep, and a few Horses.

On the 16th General Campbell marched to Bergen Point, where he embarked for Staten Island, and General Vaughan to Fort Lee, not followed by a single Man, where he repassed the North River, and the whole returned to their former Stations by Two o'Clock.

I with upon this Occasion to express the very great Assistance I have received from the Navy; indeed I have experienced it in every Instance; but the excellent Arrangement of the Boats in this Affair, and the Secrecy with which every thing was conducted, demand any particular Acknowledgment.

Your Excellency will permit me to give the highest Commendation to the Regularity of the Troops, both British, Foreign, and Provincials, during this Excursion. Their strict Attention to Discipline did them and their Officers great Credit.

Return of the Killed, Wounded, Prisoners, and Missing of the following Corps during an Excursion to Jersey from the 12th to the 16th of September 1777.

Copy of a Letter from Brigadier General Campbell to Sir Henry Clinton, dated Head Quarters, Staten Island, August 23, 1777.

S I R,

I Had the Honour of informing you Yesterday Morning of a Descent made by the Rebels on this Island, and of my being on my March with the 52d Regiment of British and 3d Regiment of Waldeck, with Two Field Pieces to each Battalion, to reconnoitre, and if possible to attack them. I am sorry now to add that the Enemy effected almost a total Surprise of Two Battalions of the Jersey Provincials, which occasioned nearly the whole Loss sustained by His Majesty's Troops, as will appear by the inclosed Return.

Soon after I wrote, I had Intelligence that the Enemy was moving towards Richmond with an Intention (as I conjectured) of occupying the adjacent Heights, and thereby be enabled to cut off the Retreat of Three Provincial Regiments stationed beyond that Village, which determined me to move forward to prevent the Sacrifice of that Corps; but a Messenger soon after arrived from Lieutenant-Colonel Dongan, with Information, that an Attack had likewise been made on the West Part of the Island; that Lieutenant-Colonel Lawrence and a good many of his Corps had been made Prisoners; but that he and Lieutenant-Colonel Allan, and their Battalions, with a few of Laurence's that had joined them, had taken Possession of some Works formerly thrown up by the Rebels near Prince's Bay, where they should be able to defend themselves until supported, or that Boats should arrive to carry them off. This strengthening me in my former Resolution, I advanced on the Footsteps of the Enemy, and proceeded without the least Interruption to the Village of Richmond, where I was obliged to halt to bring up the Rear, and to refresh the Troops who were even at this Time very much fatigued from excessive Heat. From this Place Brigadier-General Skinner was directed to send repeated Expresses to inform Colonel Dongan of my Approach, and desiring him to endeavour a Junction.

Junction. I had proceeded but a short Way beyond Richmond, when I was informed that the Rebels had reached the Old Blazing Star, and were using the greatest Diligence in transporting their Troops to the Jersey Shore. At this very Instant an Officer arrived from Colonel Dongan, that he was a little more than at a Mile's Distance on his Way to join me; whereupon I sent him Orders to turn towards the Enemy, and to attack whatever Body he could come up with, and I was following with all Expedition, and would immediately support him. He obeyed my Orders with Spirit, Bravery and Resolution, and engaged their Rear for near Half an Hour, when the 52d Regiment coming up, exchanging some Shots, and moving to take them in Flank, and the Cannon having by this Time begun to play upon their Boats, about 150 surrendered themselves Prisoners to Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell of the 52d Regiment, and the Remainder of nearly the same Number retreated towards the Extremity of the Island opposite Amboy, of which last Number I have since learned was Brigadier-General de Bore; and Reports render it still doubtful whether he has as yet made his Escape from off the Island: However, the Troops were by this Time so much fatigued that I found it altogether impossible to pursue them; and I fear the greater Part, if not the Whole, found Means to cross over near Amboy.

The Troops lay for that Night under Arms, and this Morning I detached the greater Part of General Skinner's Brigade towards Amboy, and proceeded with the Regular Troops on my Return. A Party was this Day also ordered to bring off the Enemy's Boats under the Cover of a Piece of Cannon, which was effected without any Loss.

I must not forget to mention that Colonel Bunkirk's Battalion was early in the Day ordered to attack a Party left to cover the Enemy's Boats, which they did with Charge of Bayonet, and obliged to retreat to the Jersey Shore.

By Prisoners Reports, and from an inclosed Order found in General Smallwood's Major of Brigade's Pocket, who was killed, it appears, that this Attack was carried on by select and chosen Troops, and formed from Three Brigades.—Sullivan's, Smallwood's, and De Bore's, and headed by their respective Generals, besides Drayton's and Ogden's Battalions. We have taken in all 259 Prisoners, among whom are 1 Lieutenant-Colonel, 3 Majors, 2 Captains, and 15 Inferior Officers. Their Loss in Killed cannot be ascertained, but must have been considerable.

I cannot do too much Justice to the Bravery and Spirit of the Troops. Both Officers and Men seemed only anxious to engage, and emulous who should be foremost in the Race of Glory. And I must add, that the several Commanding Officers did Justice to the Ardour of their Troops, which they knew to temper with Judgment and Conduct. For further Particulars I refer you to Brigade Major Campbell, who was present at the whole Affair, and charged with the Delivery of this.

I have, &c.

Brigadier-General.

Copy of a Letter from Lieutenant-General Sir Henry Clinton to General Sir William Howe, dated Fort Montgomery, October 9, 1777.

S I R,

IN the last Letter which I had the Honour to write to your Excellency, I mentioned my Intention, with the small Force that could be spared from the important Post you had left under my Command, to make an Attack upon Forts Clinton, Montgomery, &c. Your Excellency recollects the Situation of these Forts, that they are separated by a Creek which comes from the Mountains, and communicate with each other by a Bridge.

In my Opinion, the only Way of effecting it was by a Coup de Main in the unguarded State they then were. The Commodore and I having made our Arrangements, and every proper Jealousy having been given for every Object but the real one, the little Army, consisting of about 3000 Men, arrived off Verplanck's Point, preceded by the Gallies under the Command of Sir James Wallace. On our Appearance the Enemy retired without firing a Shot, leaving a Twelve Pounder behind them; and Sir James moved up to Peaks Kill Neck to mask the only Communication they had across the River on this Side of the Highlands.

At Day-break on the 6th the * Troops disembarked at Stoney Point. The Avant Garde of 500 Regulars and 400 Provincials commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, with Colonel Robinson of the Provincials under him, began its March to occupy the Pass of Thunder Hill. This Avant Garde, after it had passed that Mountain, was to proceed by a Detour of Seven Miles round the Hill, and debouchée in the Rear of Fort Montgomery, while General Vaughan with 1200† Men, was to continue his March towards Fort Clinton, covering the Corps under Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, and apportée to co-operate, by attacking Fort Clinton, or in Case of Misfortune to favour the Retreat. Major-General Tryon with the Remainder, being the Rear ‡ Guard, to leave a Battalion at the Pass of Thunder Hill, to open our Communication with the Fleet.

Your Excellency recollecting the many, and, I may say, extraordinary Difficulties of this March over the Mountains, every natural Obstruction, and all that Art could invent to add to them, will not be surprised that the Corps, intended to attack Fort Montgomery in the Rear, could not get to its Ground before Five o'Clock; about which Time I ordered General Vaughan's Corps, apportée, to begin the Attack on Fort Clinton, to push, if possible, and dislodge the Enemy from their advanced Station behind a Stone Breast Work, having in Front, for Half a Mile, a most impenetrable Abbatis. This the General, by his good Disposition, obliged the Enemy to quit, though supported by Cannon, got Possession of the Wall, and there waited the Motion of the co-operating Troops, when I joined him, and soon afterwards heard Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell begin his Attack. I chose to wait a favourable Moment before I ordered the Attack on the Side of Fort Clinton; which was a circular Height, defended by a Line for Musquetry, with a Barbet Battery in the Centre of Three Guns, and flanked by Two Redoubts. The Approaches to it, through a continued Abbatis of 400 Yards, defensive every Inch, and exposed to the Fire of Ten Pieces of Cannon. As the Night was approaching, I determined to seize the first favourable Instant. A brisk Attack on the Montgomery Side; the Gallies with their Oars approaching, firing, and even striking the Fort; the Men of War that Moment appearing, crowding all Sail to support us; the extreme Ardour of the Troops, in short, all determined me to order the Attack; General Vaughan's spirited Behaviour and good Conduct did the Rest. Having no Time to lose, I particularly ordered that not a Shot should be fired; in this I was strictly obeyed, and both Redoubts, &c. were stormed. General Tryon advanced with one Battalion to support General Vaughan, in case it might be necessary, and he arrived in Time to join in the Cry of Victory.

Turnach's Regiment was posted at the Stone-Wall to cover our Retreat in case of Misfortune. The Night being dark, it was near Eight o'clock before we could be certain of the Success of the Attack against Fort Montgomery, which we found afterwards had succeeded at the same Instant that of Fort Clinton did, and that by the excellent Disposition of Lieutenant Colonel Campbell, who was unfortunately killed on the first Attack, but seconded by Colonel Robinson of the Loyal American Regiment, by whose Knowledge of the Country I was much aided in forming my Plan, and to whose spirited Conduct in the Execution of it I impute in a great Measure the Success of the Enterprize.

Our Loss was not very considerable excepting in some respectable Officers, who were killed in the Attack.

About Ten o'Clock at Night the Rebels set Fire to their Two Ships, Montgomery and Congress, some Gallies and other armed Vessels, with their Cannon, Stores, &c. in them.

I have the Honor to send your Excellency a Return of the Cannon, Stores, &c. taken. That of Stores is very considerable, this being I believe their Principal Magazine.

The Commodore has assisted me with his Advice, and every Effort. We sent a joint Summons to Fort Constitution, but our Flag meeting with an insolent Reception, unknown in any War, we determined to chastize, and therefore an Embarkation under Major General Tryon, and Sir James Wallace, with the Gallies, was ordered. They found the Fort evacuated in the greatest Confusion, their Storehouses burnt, but their Cannon were left unspiked. The Commodore immediately ordered Sir James Wallace up the River, and if it should be possible to find a Passage through the Chevaux de Frise, between Polypos Island and the Main, he may probably do most essential Service.

In Justice to Captain Pownall, who commanded the Flat Boats, and the Officers under him. I must mention to your Excellency that that Service could not have been more zealously or punctually attended to.

I have the Honor to be, &c.

Signed H. CLINTON, Lt. Gen.

October 9, 10 o'Clock at Night.

P. S. Major General Tryon, whom I detached this Morning with Emerick's Chasseurs, 50 Yagers, the Royal Fusiliers and Regiment of Trumbach, with two Three Pounders, to destroy the Rebel Settlement called the Continental Village, has just returned, and reported to me that he has burned Barracks for 1500 Men, several Storehouses, and loaded Waggon. The extreme badness of the Weather making it necessary to be as expeditious as possible, no Account could be taken of the Stores, but I believe them to have been considerable. I need not point out to your Excellency the Consequence of destroying this Post, as it was the only Establishment of the Rebels in that Part of the Highlands, and the Place from whence any neighbouring Body of Troops drew their Supplies. Fanning's and Bayard's Corps marched from Verplanks Point to co-operate with General Tryon, but finding he met with no Opposition, they were ordered back to their Post.

My Lord,

THE Enemy having entrenched about Eight Hundred Men at Red Bank, upon the Jersey Shore, so ne little Distance above Fort Mifflin, Colonel Donop, with Three Battalions of Hessian Grenadiers, the Regiment of Mirbach, and the Infantry, Chasseurs, crossed the Delaware on the 21st Instant to Cooper's Ferry, opposite to this Town, with Directions to proceed to the Attack of that Post. The Detachment marched a Part of the Way on the same Day, and on the 22d in the Afternoon was before Red Bank: Colonel Donop immediately made the best Disposition, and led on the Troops in the most gallant Manner to the Assault. They carried an extensive Outwork, from whence the Enemy were driven into an interior Intrenchment, which could not be forced without Ladders, being Eight or Nine Feet high, with a Parapet boarded and flanked. The Detachment in moving up and returning from the Attack was much galled by the Enemy's Gallies and floating Batteries.

Colonel Donop and Lieutenant Colonel Minningeroode being both wounded, the Command devolved upon Lieutenant Colonel Linsing, who after collecting all the wounded that could be brought off, marched that Night about Five Miles towards Cooper's Ferry, and on the following Morning returned with the Detachment to Camp.

Colonel Donop unfortunately had his Thigh so much fractured by a Musquet Ball, that he could not be removed, but I since understand there are some Hopes of his Recovery. There were several brave Officers lost upon this Occasion, in which the utmost Ardour and Courage were displayed by both Officers and Soldiers.

On the 23d the Augusta in coming up the River with some other Ships of War, to engage the Enemy's Gallies near the Fort, got aground, and by some Accident taking Fire in the Action, was unavoidably consumed; but I do not hear the e were any Lives lost. The Merlin Sloop ~~was~~ grounded, and the other Ships being obliged to remove to a Distance from the Explosion of the Augusta, it became expedient to evacuate and burn her also.

These Disappointments however will not prevent the most vigorous Measures being pursued for the Reduction of the Fort, which will give us the Passage of the River.

I have the Honour to be, &c.

W. HOWE.

P. S. I have the Satisfaction to inclose to your Lordship a Report just received of a very spirited Piece of Service performed by Major Gen. Vaughan, and Sir James Wallace up the Hudson's River.

Copy of Major-General Vaughan's Report.

On board the Friendship off Esopus, Friday, October 17, 10 o'Clock, Morning.

S I R,

I HAVE the Honor to inform you, that on the Evening of the 15th Instant I arrived off Esopus; finding that the Rebels had thrown up Works, and had made every Disposition to annoy us, and cut off our Communication, I judged it necessary to attack them, the Wind being at that Time so much against us that we could make no Way. I accordingly landed the Troops, attacked their Batteries, drove them from their Works, spiked and destroyed their Guns. Esopus being a Nursery for almost every Villain in the Country, I judged it necessary to proceed to that Town. On our Approach they were drawn up with Cannon, which we took and drove them out of the Place. On our entering the Town they fired from their House, which induced me to reduce the Place to Ashes, which I accordingly did, not leaving a House. We found a considerable Quantity of Stores of all Kinds, which shared the same Fate.

Sir James Wallace has destroyed all the Shipping except an armed Galley, which ran up the Creek with every Thing belonging to the Vessels in Store.

Our Loss is so inconsiderable that it is not at present worth while to mention.

I am, &c.

(Signed)

John Vaughan.

Admiralty-Office, December 1, 1777.

Copy of a Letter from Vice-Admiral Lord Viscount Howe to Mr. Stephens. Dated on board His Majesty's Ship Eagle, in the River Delaware, October 25, 1777.

THE Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty will be informed by my last Letter of the 28th of August of the Arrival of the Fleet at the Head of Chesapeake Bay, and the Debarkation of the Army the 25th in the River Elk.

The Provisions, Military Stores, and Baggage required having been landed under the Direction of Captain Duncan, by the 7th of the next Month the Army advanced towards the Rebel Forces assembled near Wilmington on the Side of the Delaware.

The Enemy confiding in the Strength of their Situation, and waiting the Approach of the Army, were charged the 11th in the Evening with so much Spirit, that notwithstanding the Advantages of their Post, they were quickly forced on every Part, and retreated in great Confusion towards the Town of Philadelphia.

When this Account was forwarded, the Loss in either Army was not ascertained. But Twelve Pieces of Cannon had been taken in the Field; and the Victory would have probably been complete, but for the great Fatigue of the King's Forces in a long and difficult March round by the Forks of the Brandywine, to arrive in the destined Position for the Commencement of the Attack.

Upon Intelligence of this Event received the 13th, Preparation was made for taking the first favourable Opportunity to move the Fleet round to a proper Anchorage for preserving a free Communication with the Army in this River.

The Progress down the Bay was considerably retarded by the State of the Weather and Intricacy of the Navigation which did not admit of continuing under Sail during the Night, wherefore though quitting the Elk the 14th, the Fleet could not put to Sea from the Capes of Virginia until the 23d of the same Month. I then proceeded forward in the Eagle with the Vigilant and Isis, and a small Division of the Transports in which some Articles of Provisions and Military Stores, likely to be soon wanted for the Army, had been for that Purpose embarked, and left the Body of the Fleet to be conducted by Captain Griffith with the Rest of the Ships of War.

Having had very tempestuous Weather of some Duration to the Northward, in the Passage down Chesapeake Bay, the Prospect was favourable for the speedy Arrival of the Fleet in the Delaware.

But when the Two Divisions (little separated) were advanced within a few Leagues of the Entrance of the River, the Wind changed in a sudden Squall from the Southward in the Evening of the 25th; and having continued between the North-West and the North-East with a Degree of Force much much too great for the Transports to make any Way against it, I was unable to get into the River (followed a few Days after by the first Convoy, which I had left in the Care of Captain Cornwallis when the Weather became more settled) until the Evening of the 4th Instant.

The larger Convoy with Captain Griffith, though much more dispersed, arrived between the 6th and 8th of the Month, with no other material Accident except the Loss of the Transport named The Father's Good Will, which having sprung a Leak when no Assistance could be given during the bad Weather, sunk at Sea, but the Crew were saved.

The Ships of War and Transports were anchored in the most convenient Situations in the Western Shore from Newcastle down towards Rudy Island.

On my Arrival off Chester on the 6th Instant, I learnt that the Rebel Army, since the 11th of last Month, had always been retiring with Precipitation to avoid a general Action, sometimes attempting Advantages by Surprise; but the King's Forces maintaining their usual Ascendancy on every Occasion.

The General was in Possession of Philadelphia, and a Frigate of 32 Guns named the Delaware, attempted to be passed above the Town, had been taken by the Troops which were first posted there.

Captain Hammond (who was returned here in the Roebuck) had moved up the River with the Pearl, Camilla, and Liverpool, as the Army advanced.

When I came to this Station, he was lying with those Frigates off of Billingsport, where the Rebels had nearly completed a very extensive Work for defending the Approach to the first double Line of sunk Frames or Chevaux de Frize, which crossed the navigable Channel in that Part of the River.

The General having a few Days before appointed a strong Corps of Infantry to be landed on the Jersey Shore, to dislodge the Enemy from that Post, they abandoned it at his Approach. The Front to the River had thereupon been destroyed, and the Troops that Evening withdrawn.

A Trial had in the mean Time been begun for opening a Passage through that first Obstruction, which the Enemy, with their Fire rafts, Gallies, and other armed Craft, repeatedly endeavoured to prevent under Cover of the Night; but without any material Injury to the Frigates: And a sufficient Channel was at length (though not without much Difficulty) made for the larger Ships, by the advanced Squadron; the Conduct of which was on every Occasion to be much approved.

The remaining Obstructions to an uninterrupted Communication with the Town of Philadelphia, consisted of an inclosed Work erected on a flat muddy Island, named Fort Island, a little Distance below the Entrance of the Schuylkill, strengthened by Four Blockhouses; with Two floating Batteries of Nine Guns each, and Twelve or Fourteen Gallies mounting heavy Cannon, besides many other armed Craft of lesser Force, and several Fire-ships. Opposite thereto, on the Eastern Shore at Red Bank, above Manto Creek, a Redoubt was constructed, under which their moveable Water Force could find Protection occasionally.

In the Front of these Defences, to the Extent of Half a Mile or more below the Island, (being the Part of the Channel where the Navigation was contracted in the Width to about 100 Fathoms) several Rows of the Chevaux de Frize were sunk so as to render the nearer Approach of the Ships impracticable; and no Attempt could be made for moving the sunk Frames, or otherwise clearing the Channel, till the Command of the Shores on each Side of the River could be obtained.

For these Purposes the General ordered some Batteries to be erected on the Western Shore to dislodge the Enemy from the Island; and a Body of Troops to be landed for forcing the Redoubt on Red Bank.

It was intended that the Vigilant should pass through a Shallow and very confined Channel between Hog Island (next below Fort Island) and the Pennsylvania Shore; to arrive and act upon the Rear and less defensible Part of the Work; and the Circumstances of the Navigation not admitting of a more serious Attack, for the Reasons before mentioned, a Diversion was proposed to be made at the same Time by the advanced Frigates, together with the Isis and Augusta, in the Eastern or main Channel of the River, as well for engaging the Attention of the Enemy at Fort Island and the Redoubt, as to restrain the Motions of the Gallies and other armed Craft which had retired under the Works at Red Bank, when they discovered the Danger they would be exposed to in their former Stations near Fort Island from our Batteries on the Western Shore.

The Wind continuing from the Northward several successive Days, the Vigilant could not proceed according to her Destination at the Time intended. The Augusta, Roebuck, Liverpool and Pearl were nevertheless ordered above the first Line of Chevaux de Frize the 22d Instant, to be in Readiness for such Service as they should be able to render when the Redoubt should be attacked; and Captain Reynolds, being the senior Officer, succeeded to the Command of the advanced Squadron.

The Detachment of the Army, consisting of Hessian Troops under Colonel Donop, appointed to attack the Redoubt, crossed the Delaware opposite to Philadelphia the 21st Instant, in a Division of Flat Boats which Captain Clayton conducted in the Night by Fort Island along the Western Shore for that Purpose.

The Attack of the Redoubt being observed to take Place the Evening of the 22d, just upon the Close of Day, Captain Reynolds immediately slipped, and advanced with the Squadron, (to which the Merlin had been joined) as fast as he was able with the Flood, to second the Attempt of the Troops, which were seen to be very warmly engaged: But the Change in the natural Course of the River, caused by the Obstructions appearing to have altered the Channel, the Augusta and Merlin unfortunately grounded some Distance below the second Line of Chevaux de Frize; and the fresh Northerly Wind, which then prevailed, greatly checking the Rising of the Tide, they could not be got afloat on the subsequent Flood.

The Diversion was endeavoured to be continued by the Frigates, at which the Fire from the Enemy's Gallies was chiefly pointed for some Time. But as the Night advanced, the Hessian Detachment having been repulsed, the Firing ceased.

The Rebels discovering the State of the Augusta and Merlin in the Morning of the 23d, renewed the Fire from their Gallies, Works and Floating Batteries. But their moveable Force approaching little nearer than a Random Shot, the Injury was inconsiderable to the Ships; and by the Alertness and Spirit of the Officers and Seamen (of the Transports as well as Ships of War) attending in the Boats of the Fleet on this Occasion, four Fire-Vessels directed against the Augusta, were sent without Effect.

The Isis was at this Time warping through between the lower Chevaux de Frize. Empty Transports had been ordered up from the Fleet, and other Preparations made for lightening the Augusta; when by some Accident, no otherwise connected with the Circumstances of the Action but as it was probably caused by the Wads from her Guns, the Ship took Fire abaft, and it spread with such Rapidity that all Endeavours to extinguish it were used in vain. The Men were thereupon taken out, except a very small Number not yet ascertained. The second Lieutenant Ballock, the Chaplain and Gunner appear to be of that Number.

In this State of the Proceeding it was necessary to withdraw the Frigates, for securing them from the Effect of the Blaft. And as the Merlin could not be protected from the same Injury, I judged it requisite to give Orders for the sloop to be evacuated and destroyed. The other Ship dropped down nearer to Billingsport.

Much Commendation is due to the several Captains, inferior Officers and Seamen concerned in this Service; and particularly in their resolute Exertions to assist in saving the Crew of the Augusta.

Admiralty-Office, December 1, 1777.

Copy of a Letter from Commodore Hotham to Vice Admiral Lord Viscount Howe, and by his Lordship transmitted to Mr. Stephens, dated on Board His Majesty's Ship the Preston, off Peak's Kill Creek, the 9th of October, 1777.

SIR Henry Clinton having thought it advisable to make a Diversion up the North River, and the necessary Arrangements being made in Consequence, the Flat Boats and Batteaux on the 3d Instant proceeded to Spikendevil Creek in Three Divisions, under the Captains Pownall, Jordan, and Stanhope: Captain Pownall having the Direction of the Whole.

A Body of about 1100 Troops were embarked in them that Evening, and the same Night proceeded to Tarry Town, where they landed at Day-break, and occupied the Heights adjoining. A Second Division, nearly of that Number, marched out at the same Time from Kingsbridge, and formed a Junction by Land with those who passed by Water. The Squadron under Captain Ommanney had moved up the Day before to receive them, the smaller Part of it, namely, the Gallies and armed Vessels, (as they might be to act separately) I thought it advisable on this Occasion to make a distinct Command, and could not place them better than under the Direction of Sir James Wallace, whose Knowledge of the River, as well as Captain Ommanney's, we fully experienced the Advantage of.

The Third Division of Troops were embarked in Transports, and on the 4th in the Morning left New York, under Convoy of the Preston, and in the Course of the same Tide arrived off Tarry Town.

The general Embarkation was that Night made, and the Wind being still favourable the Whole, preceded by the Squadron under Sir James Wallace as an advanced Guard, reached Vere Planks Point at Noon the Day following, and those in the Flat Boats landed with Appearance only of an Opposition. Sir James Wallace was immediately dispatched higher up the River to cut off the Enemy's Communication by Peak's Kill Ferry.

The 6th at Day-break the general Debarkation took Place, and all the Troops, except about Four Hundred, who were left to secure Vere Plank Neck, were soon landed at Stoney Point, upon the opposite Shore, from whence they had about Twelve Miles to march through a mountainous and rugged Road to Fort Clinton and Montgomery.

The Ships and Transports then moved higher up, and anchored opposite Peak's Kill Landing.

In the Afternoon the advanced Squadron and the Two Frigates got under Sail and opened Fort Montgomery, with a View only to make an Appearance, and thereby to cause a Diversion in favour of the Attack, which we observed had now begun. Sir James by the Help of his Oars got near enough in with the Gallies to throw some Shot into the Fort. The Cannonading and Fire of Musquetry continued 'till Night, when, by a most spirited Exertion a general and vigorous Assault was made, and the Two important Forts of Clinton and Montgomery fell by Storm to His Majesty's Arms. On which I have the Honour to congratulate your Lordship most sincerely. The Rebel Frigates are both burnt, with a Galley, and a Sloop of Ten Guns is taken.

The Loss on the Enemy's Side is not yet exactly known, but they are supposed to have had about 100 killed, and 250 taken Prisoners. The greatest Loss on the Side of the King's Troops are about 40 killed, among whom are some valuable Officers, namely, Lieutenant Colonel Campbell, Major Sil, Major Grant, and Capt. Stewart, and about 150 wounded.

A Summons signed by Sir Henry Clinton and myself was the next Day sent up to Fort Constitution, by a Flag of Truce, which being fired at returned, and determined the General immediately to correct the Insult by an Attack. An Embarkation was accordingly made on the Morning on the 8th, and proceeded up the River for that Purpose, under cover of the Gallies.

We found upon our Arrival the Fort had been abandoned in great Confusion, their Barracks burnt, but all their Artillery left. The whole Number of Cannon taken in the Three Forts amount to 67, with a large Quantity of Provisions, Ammunition, and Stores of all Kinds to a very considerable Amount. I have directed such Part of the Chain and Bomb as cannot be saved to be destroyed; the Construction of both give strong Proofs of Labour, Industry, and Skill.

Sir James Wallace with his flying Squadron is gone still higher up the River, and if he passes the Chovaux de Frize at Polipus Island, he may do essential Service, as there can be nothing to give him any Interruption.

When it is considered that this Attack was made after a most fatiguing March over Precipices, and through Roads almost impenetrable, which made it impossible for the Troops to avail themselves of the Use of Cannon so necessary for such a Purpose, and the little Assistance they could therein promise themselves from the Ships; the Access through the Highlands to the Forts, rendering the Approach to them so precarious, it redounds the more to the Credit of an Enterprize, which was formed and executed with equal Judgment, Valour, and Success.

The Captains, Officers, and Men under my Command have been so strenuously zealous in their Exertions upon this Occasion, that every Testimony is due from me in Approbation of their Conduct during this Service of Fatigue, of which Captain Pownall has had his Share, and is well able to inform your Lordship of every Particular.

I have the farther Pleasure to acquaint your Lordship that General Tryon is just returned from Continental Village, where he has destroyed Barracks for 1500 Men, with Stores to a considerable Amount.

Copy of a Letter from Sir James Wallace to Commodore Hotham, dated, Gallies and Armed Vessels off Esopus Creek, October 17, 1777.

S I R,

WE proceeded up the River, destroying a Number of Vessels as we sailed along, without stopping till we arrived at Esopus Creek, where we found Two Batteries; One of Two Guns, the other of Three Guns erected, and an armed Galley at the Mouth of the Creek, who endeavoured to prevent our passing by their Cannonade. General Vaughan was of Opinion such a Force should not be left behind. It was determined to land and destroy them, and immediately executed, without retarding our proceeding up the River. The General marched for the Town and fired it. The Boats from the armed Vessels went up the Creek, burnt Two Brigs, several large Sloops and other Craft, with all their Apparatus that was in Store upon the Shore. Lieutenant Clark of the Dependance, with Two or Three others, in firing the Stores were blown up, but we flatter ourselves not dangerously.

The Officers and Men upon this Occasion behaved with the greatest Spirits.
